THE ELSEVIER FOUNDATION - AJPP PARTNERSHIP

We are proud to partner with the African Journal Partnerships Program to provide skills-based volunteering offering strategic, editorial, communication and operational guidance — with the goal boost the impact and discoverability of African health research.

OUR VOLUNTEERS

Elsevier volunteers provide supplementary training to the African journals for a period of 1-4 weeks in country. Since 2017, 34 volunteers have contributed a total of a total of 97 weeks of time sharing expertise in publishing, marketing, operations and technology. Six members of the Mali and DRC journals were hosted in Amsterdam for a week in September 2017 to boost the impact of their journals; and an additional Francophone training week was organized in the Paris office in October 2018, and in Kigali during the AHAIC Conference in March 2019.

GOALS

- Strengthen the impact of African journals by improving quality and discoverability
- Improve visibility of African research by working to submit applications to scholarly indexes.
- Facilitate collaboration and knowledge exchange between African editors and their counterparts.
- Support the training of authors, reviewers and journalists in Africa
- Build journal websites, evolve editorial board practices and improve the pool of authors and reviewers.
